

TI People

The world of work is changing: Digital disrupts corporate strategy. Companies change the way they organize work and find new ways to manage people.

Founded in 2016, TI People is located in Hamburg, London, San Francisco, and Washington DC, helping organizations transform to innovate people management. We have designed a unique consulting model to aid senior executives of the most progressive companies in the world. We help them to set up their organizations for success in the new work environment and to significantly increase work productivity.

For the next level of growth we are looking for a

Project Manager (m/f)
based in Hamburg or Washington DC

Your Impact

As Project Manager at TI People, you will develop digital and innovation strategies for people management of the leading companies in the world. To do so, you will apply strategy consulting methodology, research, and best practices to create roadmaps for digital HR transformation, workforce analytics, skill management, HR customer experience, and innovation strategies.

With us, your travel burden will be limited and you won't work long consulting hours. And our dedicated sales team allows you to play to your strengths in client interaction and project management.

What Makes You Successful

You have experienced international top management consulting for 5+ years and know the toolbox. You are a positive challenger for us, clients, and yourself. You have experienced the power of digital strategies. And you enjoy working and growing in an open-minded, entrepreneurial team.

Your Contact

To explore this job opportunity, please visit ti-people.com/careers and reach out to andre.fortange@ti-people.com.

