

TI PEOPLE in the Experience Economy

The world of work is changing: We live in an Experience Economy, where the lines between customers and employees are blurred. People expect superior customer experiences from companies they do business with, and they expect the same of organizations they work for: Compensation itself in exchange for one's labor, skills and contribution is no longer sufficient. Experience is a substantial factor in determining if and how relationships in this new era are forged and endure over time.

Founded in 2016 and located in Hamburg, London, and Washington DC, TI PEOPLE is the experience company that is making a difference to people's experience of work. We believe that all individuals deserve better experiences and know that the organizations that deliver them in every moment are more successful. We have designed a unique consulting model to help senior executives adapt the most progressive companies in the world to the experience economy.

To strengthen our team, we are looking for a

Working Student (d/f/m),

min. 8 hours/week, full-time contract possible during semester break,

for our Hamburg office (or working remotely).

Your Impact

As a fully recognized member of our team, you will support consulting projects and drive activities to maintain the EX thought leadership of TI PEOPLE. Interacting directly with internal and external senior stakeholders, you lay the foundation for developing solutions that help the leading companies in the world with measuring, designing, and managing their employee's experiences.

What Makes You Successful

You are a highly motivated student, take on responsibility and enjoy a self-reliant working style. As a person, you are a positive challenger, intellectually curious, with a hands-on mentality. Deploying and expanding skills in data analysis, design thinking, and agile methodology is intriguing to you. And you enjoy working and growing in an open-minded, entrepreneurial team to bring a better life at work to employees.
